Continuing in the glorious tradition of such filmmakers as Roberto Rossellini, Federico Fellini, Michelangelo Antonioni, Pier Paolo Pasolini, Luchino Visconti and Bernardo Bertolucci, contemporary Italian cinema remains among the most vibrant and unpredictable anywhere in Europe, examining and celebrating an Italy both ancient and modern, pastoral and urban. The series closes over two nights with Gianni Amelio's THE MISSING STAR (LA STELLA CHE NON C'E') with Sergio Castellito as an Italian dealing with contradictory business bureaucracy in China and Egidio Eronico's MY FATHER, starring Charlton Heston, a fascinating and poignant look at the tragic legacy of Nazi war crime for a new generation. LATINOFEST – October 5 – 15 This is not an American Cinematheque program.

Wednesday, October 18 – 8:00 PM

Egyptian Theatre 84th Anniversary!

THE SINGING KID, 1936, Warner Bros., 85 min. Dir. William Keighley. Al Jolson's last big film where he received first billing certainly is an enjoyable picture, albeit a satire of Jolson's fade from the top of show business ranks. Jolson plays Al Jackson, a radio singing star who has been jilted by his girlfriend and is sent to the country to rest his weary voice. The film also boasts the appearance of the magnetic Cab Calloway Orchestra, and their trademark scat style of swing. Fans of swing music will be in seventh heaven. Rounding out the main leads (newcomer Beverly Roberts is his co-star) were two favorites of 1930's movie audiences, Edward Everett Horton and Allen Jenkins, as comic sidekicks and employees of Jackson. Child star, Sybil Jason also stars as Roberts' niece. One of the most memorable scenes is an on site location shot at Franklin Canyon Lake. Al and Sybil enjoy a fishing outing at the lake's pier and sing the charming song, “You're the Cure For What Ails Me.” The song was recorded with an on-site piano at the pier, to keep the actors in pitch to record. A full orchestra was added later. It is a most charming scene, and well illustrates the genuine camaraderie between Al and Sybil. They would remain friends to the end of Al's life in 1950.

Discussion following with actresses Sybil Jason and Beverly Roberts moderated by Richard "Mr. Tinpan Alley" Halpern. A birthday reception for The Egyptian Theatre at 6:30 PM will precede the screening.

FROM THE TSARS TO THE STARS: A JOURNEY THROUGH RUSSIAN FANTASTIK CINEMA October 19 – 25 at The Egyptian Theatre

Wind demons and crystal palaces ... Shimmering aquatic gill-men and limitless vistas of outer space ... For over eight decades Russian cinema has had an inspired tradition of filmmaking that encompasses Science Fiction, Folkloric Fantasy and Horror, producing stunningly beautiful and wildly entertaining movies which are only now being seen by American audiences in their original form. Beginning with the pioneering animation of Ladislav Starewitch, through the silent classics AELITA: QUEEN OF MARS and A SPECTRE HAUNTS EUROPE and on to the astonishing visions of master filmmakers Alexander Ptushko and Pavel Klushantsev in the 1940's and 1950's, Russian genre cinema was amazingly colorful, technologically advanced and thematically ambitious. During the Cold War, sci-fi elements dominated, in keeping with the Sputnik era space race between Russia and the U.S. More than a decade before 2001: A SPACE ODYSSEY, visual-effects pioneers Pavel Klushantsev and Mikhail Koryukov created breathtaking visions of man's voyage to outer space in such films as THE HEAVENS CALL and PLANET OF STORMS, drawing upon the latest technical advances to present a highly detailed and optimistic view of space exploration. And in 1962, Kazansky and Chebotarev's charming THE AMPHIBIAN MAN, a cross between Jules Verne and Hans Christian Andersen, became one of the biggest smash hits in Soviet history. Ironically, many of these astonishing works did end up on Western screens -- albeit almost mauled beyond recognition. At the height of the Cold War, enterprising U.S. producers like Roger Corman purchased Soviet sci-fi films at bargain prices and gave them to up-and-coming American directors including Francis Ford Coppola, Curtis Harrington and Peter Bogdanovich to re-fashion via newly shot footage. With added scenes of space vampires and tentacled monsters, the Russian films were released in American drive-ins with titles like VOYAGE TO THE PLANET OF PREHISTORIC WOMEN and QUEEN OF BLOOD - ! This series will feature prints of the legendary Russian originals (with English subtitles), seen for the very first time in the U.S.

This series examines the history of Russian Fantastika with rare screenings of many of the aforementioned films as well as Alexander Ptushko's delightful RUSLAN AND LUDMILA in a brand new print, Aleksandr Rou's classic adaptation of Nikolai Gogol's Christmas story, EVENINGS ON A FARM NEAR DIKANKA, a newly restored print of Richard Viktorov's TO THE STARS BY HARD WAYS, and Karen Shakhnazarov's remarkable, black comic meditation on Soviet history during the Perestroika era, ZERO CITY. It'll be revelatory, it'll be mind-expanding, and it'll be fun. This series is presented by the Film Society of Lincoln Center, Seagull Films and the American Cinematheque in collaboration with Concern Mosfilm, Russian State Archive Gosfilmofond and M-Film Studio. Generous support is provided by the Russian State Agency for Culture and Cinematography, George Gund III and Lara Lee and Titra California Inc.

This series was curated by Alla Verlotsky, Robert Skotak and Dennis Bartok.
Introduction and descriptions written by Kent Jones, Robert Skotak and Dennis Bartok.

Special thanks to Brandon Maurice Williams, Gwen Deglise, Robert Dekker, Karen Shakhnazarov, Sergey Lazaruk, Nikolay Borodachev, Mikhail Kosirev and Chris D.. Sponsored by the New York Foundation for the Arts.

Thursday, October 19 - 7:30 PM

Double Feature:

RUSLAN AND LUDMILA (RUSLAN I LYUDMILA), 1972, 159 min. Dir. Alexander Ptushko. A mad, enchanted combination of THE WIZARD OF OZ, DIE NIEBELUNGEN and THE 5,000 FINGERS OF DR. T, this is quite possibly Ptushko's greatest masterpiece, an epic two-part fantasy packed with surreal, grotesque characters - a sorcerous midget with a 50-foot beard, a demonic, hunchbacked witch - and jaw-dropping set pieces such as the midget's shimmering crystal palace, tormented figures chained inside a cavern, and a decapitated giant's head rising up like a statue on Easter Island. Based on a poem by Pushkin, Ptushko's final film as director follows the epic adventures of Ruslan (Valery Kosints) as he struggles to recover the feisty, resourceful bride (Natalia Petrova) kidnapped on their wedding night by the impish sorcerer Tchernomor.

COSMIC VOYAGE (KOSMICHESKIY REIS), 1936, 70 min. Dir. Vasili Zhuravlev. The first Soviet sci-fi movie since the spectacularly popular AELITA: QUEEN OF MARS in 1924, this effects-filled film tells the story of Pavel (Sergei Komarov, who also appeared in Pudovkin's DESERTER and BARNET'S OUTSKIRTS), a renegade space traveler. His voyage to the moon - he's fed up with the restrictions imposed by the "Moscow Institute for Interplanetary Travel" - offers a startlingly realistic technological prophecy. Konstantin Tsiolkovsky, a seminal space-travel theoretician, served as the production's science consultant (he was also the author of the film's source novel, Outside the Earth) and drew up more than 30 detailed blueprints for the "rocketplane" featured in the film. There may be a rocket named after Stalin, but the film still reeks of anti-doctrinal individualism, doubtlessly accounting for Ukrainian-born Soviet filmmaker Zhuravlev's sporadic post-COSMIC VOYAGE output. Silent with Russian intertitles and English translation, with pre-recorded score.

Friday, October 20 - 7:30 PM

Double Feature:

THE AMPHIBIAN MAN (CHELOVEK AMFIBIYA) 1961, 95 min. Dir. G. Kazansky & V. Chebotare. One of the most beloved of all Russian films (65 million admissions in 1962, which roughly translates into 520 million current American box-office dollars), this tall tale of a handsome, gilled mutant named Ichtlyandr (Vladimir Korenov) whose father has replaced his faulty lung with the gills of a young shark, unfolds in a very oddly conceived coastal locale among pearl divers, rogues and old salts. When Ichtlyandr saves a local fisherman's daughter (Anastasiya Vertinskaya) from a shark attack, he falls in love with her and wants to give up the water for a life on land. Perhaps the ultimate product of the late 50's-early 60's "thaw," this enchanting hybrid of The Little Mermaid and THE CREATURE FROM THE BLACK LAGOON surreally brims with Latin song-and-dance numbers and Russian stars in brownface (shot on beautiful Cuban locations) that must be seen to be believed. Korenov and Vertinskaya (who went on to play Ophelia in Kozintsev's HAMLET and the Princess in Bondarchuk's WAR AND PEACE) both became huge Soviet stars as a result of his film's massive success.

EVENINGS ON A FARM NEAR DIKANKA (VECHARA NA KHUTORE BLIZ DIKANKI), 1961, 69 min. Dir. Aleksandr Rou. This glorious excursion into Technicolor fantasy (with cartoon elements) is one of the most beautiful in the rich strain of Russian cinematic fantasy, and it is also very true to the spirit of the Russian/Ukrainian master Nikolai Gogol. The tale of a blacksmith (Aleksandr Khvylya) from a darkened village sent on an endless quest on Christmas Eve by his beloved Oksana (L. Myznikova), ending in St. Petersburg and with a stop along the way for a conference with the devil, has been filmed a few times throughout Russian film history, but never with so much charm and such a rich feeling for the satiric, folkloric power of the source material. A classic.

Saturday, October 21 - 6:00 PM

STALKER, 1979; 163 min. Dir. Andrei Tarkovsky. A sci-fi tale that unwinds in the environs of the soul takes the form of a nightmarish quest for nothing less than truth itself. A writer (Anatoli Solonitsin) and a scientist (Nikolai Grinko) follow a shaven-headed "stalker" (Aleksandr Kadjanovsky) into forbidden territory, a dangerous wilderness known as the Zone. Tarkovsky forces - or perhaps allows - "reality" to yield up abstract images of startling originality, and his vision of landscape is nothing less than truly mystical - these are places to be found only in humankind's spiritual Baedeker. On top of everything else, Tarkovsky was a director who truly grasped the aesthetic power of color, and this unforgettable Pilgrimage is bathed in eerie sepia hues.

Saturday, October 21 - 9:30 PM

Double Feature:

PLANET OF STORMS (PLANETA BUR) 1961, 83 min. Dir. Pavel Klushantsev. Upon arrival on Venus, a team of cosmonauts finds a hostile environment filled with furious volcanoes and sundry prehistoric beasts, including a cackling, swooping pterodactyl. Working from a dullish source, director Klushantsev went his 1958 Venusian cosmonaut epic ROAD TO THE STARS one better with this Soviet classic, overpowering the party-line dialogue with excellent poetic effects. PLANET OF STORMS was subsequently bought by Roger Corman, who used Klushantsev's footage as the basis of Curtis Harrington's 1965 VOYAGE TO THE PREHISTORIC PLANET and later incorporated footage from the film in Harrington's 1966 QUEEN OF BLOOD. Never one to look a gift horse in the mouth, Corman ran the original film through the recycling spin cycle one more time with 1968's Mamie Van Doren vehicle VOYAGE TO THE PLANET OF THE PREHISTORIC WOMEN, which was the directorial debut of Peter Bogdanovich, no less.

THE HEAVENS CALL (NEBO ZOVET) 1959, 80 min. Dir. Mikhail Karyukov and Aleksandr Kozyr. This tale of two rival space probes, headed for Mars and the moon, only to crash-land on a nearby asteroid, features spectacular space scapes, as well as a prescient visualization of the Earth's orbit cluttered by man-made satellites. Roger Corman helped himself to the film's plot and footage for the 1963 opus BATTLE BEYOND THE SUN, re-edited and reconfigured into a drive-in movie by an ambitious young director named Thomas Colchert. These days, he goes by the name of Francis Ford Coppola.

Preceded by the short: "The Cameraman's Revenge" (Mest kinematograficheskogo operatora), 1912, 12 min. Silent. Dir. Ladislav Starewitch. An early fantastic classic from the great animation pioneer, about adultery in the insect kingdom - a married beetle is filmed in a compromising situation by a jealous grasshopper; the beetle is later compromised when he takes his (also adulterous!) wife to the movies and sees the final results!

Sunday, October 22 - 4:00 PM

A SPECTRE HAUNTS EUROPE (PRIZRAK BRODIT PO YEVIROPE) 1922, 94 min. Silent with live piano accompaniment. Dir. Vladimir Gardin. The emperor of an imaginary nation goes for a stroll and meets a shepherdess. He finds love, but he also finds torment at the hands of those he's oppressed. The title may come from the opening line of "The Communist Manifesto," but SPECTRE is in fact one of the earliest adaptations of Edgar Allan Poe's "The Masque of the Red Death," preceded only by Fritz Lang and Otto Riepert's THE PLAGUE IN FLORENCE made three years earlier. This beautifully atmospheric film was shot in Crimean locations by the great cameraman Boris Savalyev, who would later shoot Dovzhenko's ZVENIGORA. With Vasili Kovrigin (co-star of DESERTER by Pudovkin).

Preceded by the short: "Interplanetary Revolution" (Mezhplanetnaya Revolyutsiya), 1924; silent; 9 min. (fragment). Dirs. Z. Komissarenko, U. Merkulov and N. Hodataev. So successful was AELITA, QUEEN OF MARS upon its release that it earned its own cartoon spoof in the same year! It doesn't just capitalize on AELITA's popularity, however - it serves as a mild political corrective. In 1924, the year of Lenin's death, the Communist Party began to distance itself from the "world revolution" doctrine; therefore the notion of the rising Martian proletariat was just past due, and safe to ridicule.

Sunday, October 22 - 6:30 PM

SOLARIS (SOLYARIS) 1972, 165 min. Dir. Andrei Tarkovsky. Scientist Chris Kelvin (Donatas Banionis) is sent to a space station whose inhabitants have been performing a series of experiments in an attempt to make contact with the strange planet known as Solaris. When he arrives, he believes that most of the crew has gone mad, until he's visited by an apparition: his former lover Hari (Natalia Bondarchuk), who had committed suicide long ago. Thus he learns the secret of Solaris and its ocean, which creates "copies" of real people, "simulacra made not of ordinary matter but of neutrinos which are modelled by the thinking ocean out of the human subconscious. They are a physical embodiment of all the temptations, desires and suppressed guilt that torment the human mind" (Maya Turovskaya). Recently remade by Steven Soderbergh with George Clooney as Kelvin, this original version of SOLARIS was judged harshly by its own creator. But then Tarkovsky judged every film he ever made harshly. This may be the most emotionally devastating science fiction film ever made. Based on the novel by the great Stanislaw Lem, who died this March at the age of 84 and to whom we pay tribute with these screenings.

Monday, October 23 – 7:30 PM

SPECIAL OUTFEST MONDAY

Winner: Kodak's Outstanding Emerging Talent, Outfest 2006

FAT GIRLS, 2006, 82 min. Dir. Ash Christian. Armed with biting humor, FAT GIRLS follows would-be-Broadway-legend Rodney and his Rubenesque friend Sabrina as they suffer through the indignity known as high school. Channeling his inner "fat girl," Rodney befriends the hot new British boy in school, confronts his own fears and hilariously reaches for his true potential. With this auspicious debut, filmmaker Ash Christian announces his arrival as a major new talent. IN COLLABORATION WITH: UCLA LGBT Campus Resource Center

Wednesday, October 25 - 7:30 PM

Double Feature:

TO THE STARS BY HARD WAYS (CHEREZ TERNII K ZVEZDAM) 1985/2001, 118 min. Dir. Richard Viktorov. The Starship Pushkin, boldly going where no man has gone before, finds an abandoned vessel in deep space filled with the decaying bodies of humanoids. There is, however, one surviving member of the crew, a gynoid named Niya (an eye-popping performance by Yelena Metiyolkina), who seeks the help of earthlings to restore her now severely polluted home planet of Dessa to its natural splendor. Richard Viktorov's collaboration with sci-fi writer Kir Bulychyov has undeniable camp appeal, with its abundance of mod leisure-wear outfits, cosmic mercenaries and bionic women (not to mention a humanoid midget capitalist, the villain responsible for running Dessa into the ground), and it was pitched to the 1982 Soviet teen audience as skillfully as the STAR TREK film series was pitched to its American counterpart. However, this deliriously emotional movie (known to Mystery Science Theater fans in its HUMANOID WOMAN form) is also visually ravishing and, in its own unique way, deeply affecting. We will be screening Viktorov's original version.

ZERO CITY (GOROD ZERO), 1988, 103 Min. Dir. Karen Shakhnazarov. One of the key films of the Perestroika era. A Moscow engineer named Varakin (beautifully played, in an increasingly bewildered deadpan performance, by Leonid Filatov) arrives in a small town, with instructions to change the size of a locally manufactured air conditioner part. At the company office he is welcomed by a naked secretary. Soon, he finds himself sitting down to lunch. The dessert arrives, a cake that strongly resembles his own head, baked by a chef who soon shoots himself in the head. With every new encounter, Varakin is sucked into the vortex of a new identity and a strange, new reality. With its images of a burdensome past (Soviet history is crammed into an elaborate diorama exposition thousands of feet below ground, to which Varakin is shepherded) and an indeterminate future, and with its roots in both the folk tale and more modern forms of absurdism, Shakhnazarov's very funny and very poignantly disorienting film is a real historical touchstone.

Manuel Cueto (Juan Diego Botto) a young Argentine journalist has been hired to transcribe the memoirs of famous novelist Joaquin Gonez (Jose Sacristan) who is retired in Spain. Through brilliant dialogue and flashbacks, the whole life of the writer unfolds. From a too-perfect childhood in a suburban Buenos Aires barrio with his mother Roma (Susu Pecoraro) and father (Gustavo Garzon), to the turmoil of the 1960's dictatorship, this slice-of-life of a typical free-thinking Argentinian is also the historical drama of the filmmaker Adolfo Aristarain himself. Cocktail Reception starting at 6:30 PM.

Saturday, October 28 – 3:00 PM

LA Premiere! PATOROZITO: LA GRAND ADVENTURA, 2006, Patagonik, 75 min. Dir. Jose Luis Masa. Ever since the Indian cacique was born from the comics of Dante Quinteros, Patorozito has delighted numerous generations of Argentine children. In this second movie installment, Patorozito embarks on even more amazing quests in the Patagonian region resulting in a most charming animated adventure tale about a young boy and his family who live in the outback. Discussion following with director Jose Luis Masa.

Saturday, October 28 – 5:30 PM

LA Premiere! ILLUMINADOS POR EL FUEGO, 2006, Latidos Films, 100 min. Dir. Tristan Bauer. Through a subtitle flashback narrative style, the life of Esteban Leguizamon (Gaston Pauls), is told after his suicide. How he was thrown into a war that he didn't ask for, with no food, no weapons and no training, and how he was later abandoned as a veteran in a society trying to ignore that terrible political disaster. Tristan Bauer's multi-award-winning feature is surely the most powerful and important of the movies coming out of Argentina this year.

LA Premiere! TIEMPO DE VALIENTES, 2005, TF1, 112 min. Using Jewish humor and screwball-comedy in his second feature film, director Damian Szifron explores the tandem-buddy-picture-style pioneered in the spaghetti westerns of Bud Spencer and Terence Hill. Psychoanalyst, Mariano (Diego Peretti) is assigned to community service and must accompany overweight and depressed Alfredo Diaz (Luis Luque) in his rounds. Atypical in current Argentine cinema, this film is entertaining and popular, mixing gags with social criticism.

World Premiere of Newly-Colorized Version - Ray Harryhausen In-Person

SHE, 1935, The Douris Corporation, 95 min. Dirs. Lansing C. Holden and Irvin Pichel. "I am Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow." Producer Merian C. Cooper (KING KONG) tries his hand at the oft-adapted adventure fantasy classic by H. Rider Haggard and comes up with what remains, to this day, the most entertaining, eye-popping version. Unlike the enjoyable mid-1960's Hammer studios take on SHE starring Ursula Andress, which recast its tale in the African desert, this mesmerizing escapist fare is set in the Arctic, with intrepid explorer, Randolph Scott encountering man-eating cannibals before coming up against the even more formidable She Who Must Be Obeyed. Helen Gahagan is the imperious, goddess-like ruler of the lost kingdom of Kor, a woman haunted by her immortality after bathing in the flame of eternal life and waiting eons for the man of her dreams – Scott! Cooper had originally hoped for the film to be shot in color, but alas, it was not to be. Now thanks to Legend Films and the personal shot-by-shot supervision of fabled effects wizard, Ray Harryhausen, Cooper's original vision has been realized in a new, eye-popping, colorized and uncut restoration (with 8 additional minutes not seen in the movie since 1935!). With Nigel Bruce, Helen Mack. Special guests for the evening will include Ray Harryhausen, Ray Bradbury and Forrest J. Ackerman, plus a discussion following the film with Ray Harryhausen. Preceding the screening, there will be a reception open to the public at Every Picture Tells A Story, 1311-C Montana Ave., Santa Monica (right across the street from the Aero).

With Jill Clayburgh. Guests who will introduce screening to be announced.

Exploring the Green Inferno:

LA Premiere! “Devil’s Island – Journey Into Jungle Alcatraz, 2006, JVA, 58 min. Dir. Jean Christophe Jauffre. Narrated by Christopher Lee. Now buried under an impenetrable jungle lay the lost remains of what had been, for over a hundred years, the most legendary convict prison in history.

PAPILLON, 1973, Warner Bros., 150 min. Dir. Franklin J. Schaffner. Papillon (Steve McQueen) is a safecracker, a man of action. Dega (Dustin Hoffman) is a brilliant counterfeiter, an intellectual. Both are trying to escape from the French Guyana Penitentiary of Devil’s Island. This unlikely friendship of opposites offers us a memorable reunion of two sacred monsters of Hollywood and one of the greatest prison escape movies ever made! McQueen delivers his signature brand of machismo as he endures a catalog of trials and torments to achieve freedom. Based on a purportedly true story from Henri Charriere’s novel, adapted by screenwriter, Dalton Trumbo, this spectacular epic of survival becomes a great document of man’s inhumanity to man.

Memories of Africa:

LA Premiere! “Karen Blixen, Out Of This World”, 2005, Dr TV, 58 min. Dirs. Anna Von Lowzow, Marcus Mandal. Meet the real Karen Blixen and discover her fascinating romantic adventure. Her passion for the “Dark Continent“ inspired the Academy Award-winning film OUT OF AFRICA.

OUT OF AFRICA, 1985, Universal, 160 min. Dir. Sydney Pollack. This seven Oscar winner is memorable for Meryl Streep’s classic performance of a strong-willed woman and for the magnificent wedding of cinematography with music. Beauty makes wild Africa the main character, among numerous talented actors – Robert Redford, Klaus Maria Brandauer, Michael Gough. This sweeping and deeply romantic recounting of Baroness Karen Blixen – her marriage, her settlement, the coffee plantation, her loves- during the First World War, is also a film about freedom, possession and loss, empire and ecology. A stepping stone between LAWRENCE OF ARABIA and THE ENGLISH PATIENT.

Thursday, October 19 – 7:30 PM

Alan Arkin In Person Tribute!

LITTLE MISS SUNSHINE, 2006, Fox Searchlight, 101 min. The directorial debut of renowned music video directors (and husband-and-wife team) Jonathan Dayton and Valerie Faris is an American family road comedy that shatters the mold. Brazenly satirical and yet deeply human, the film introduces audiences to one of the most endearingly fractured families in recent cinema history: the Hoovers, whose trip to a pre-pubescent beauty pageant results not only in comic mayhem but in death, transformation and a moving look at the surprising rewards of being losers in a winning-crazed culture. A runaway hit at the Sundance Film Festival, where it played to standing ovations, the film strikes a nerve with everyone who's ever been awestruck by how their muddled families seem to make it after all. With great performances by Greg Kinnear, Toni Collette, Steve Carell and Alan Arkin.

THE HEART IS A LONELY HUNTER, 1968, Warner Bros., 123 min. Alan Arkin was nominated for an Academy Award for his heart-wrenching performance as Singer, a deaf-mute who lives in a world of his own – until he befriends an introverted teenaged girl (Sondra Locke, in an equally astonishing performance.) Beautifully directed by Robert Ellis Miller (THE BUTTERCUP CHAIN), based on Carson McCullers' acclaimed novel. Discussion in between films with actor Alan Arkin.

Friday, October 20 – 7:30 PM

Kevin Thomas' Favorites

Brand New Print! GONE WITH THE WIND, 1939, Warner Bros., 222 min. Dir. Victor Fleming. Coquettish, infuriating Southern vixen Scarlett O'Hara (Vivien Leigh) only has eyes for sensitive Ashley Wilkes (Leslie Howard) - but wise-cracking hellraiser Rhett Butler (Clark Gable) is determined to win her heart, even if it takes surviving the burning of Atlanta, the destruction of Scarlett's beloved Tara, and the overthrow of the Old South itself. Considered by many the high point of grand, Hollywood style filmmaking, and - despite its sometimes questionable depiction of blacks during the Civil War - still one of the most irresistible American epics ever put on screen. Brilliantly mounted by producer David O. Selznick based on Margaret Mitchell's best-selling novel, with an unforgettable score by Max

Steiner. With Olivia de Havilland, Hattie McDaniel (the first African American to win an Academy Award), Thomas Mitchell, Butterfly McQueen, Evelyn Keyes. In addition to McDaniel, it also won Oscars for Best Picture, Director, Actress (Vivien Leigh) and Screenwriter (Sidney Howard). Kevin Thomas will introduce the screening.

Saturday, October 21 – 7:30 PM

Lasting Impressions

BEST IN SHOW, 2000, Warner Bros., 90 min. The same folks who brought you THIS IS SPINAL TAP and WAITING FOR GUFFMAN, are responsible for this side-splitting spoof on the insanity both in-front-of and behind-the-scenes of big time dog shows. Christopher Guest not only directed and starred-in, but co-wrote the howlingly funny script with co-star, Eugene Levy. The incredible ensemble cast also includes Parker Posey, Catherine O'Hara, Fred Willard and Michael McKean, to name but a few. Discussion following with actor Fred Willard.

Sunday, October 22 – 6:30 PM

70 mm. print! TITANIC, 1997, Paramount, 194 min. Dir. James Cameron. "I thought I wanted to be the next Jacques Cousteau," Cameron once remarked - here, he goes one better by resurrecting the doomed R.M.S. Titanic as a shimmering spectacle of polished brass and lost love. First the most-expensive (and later the most-successful) movie in Hollywood history, TITANIC was in reality a labor of love and craft for Cameron and crew - from cinematographer Russell Carpenter's luminous ocean images to production designer Peter Lamont's meticulous reconstructions of the Titanic interiors. With Leonardo Di Caprio and Kate Winslet. Introduction by actress Gloria Stuart.

THE BLOOD IS THE LIFE – VAMPIRES ON FILM AND DUSK-TO-DAWN HORRORTHON!

October 25 – 28, 2006 at The Aero Theatre

Sponsored by Charles N. Mathewson Foundation, Wild Oats and Le Marmiton.

More than any other movie monster, the vampire seems to have cornered the market in the popularity sweepstakes with not only filmmakers but audiences as well. From F. W. Murnau's silent NOSFERATU to Bela Lugosi's early 1930's DRACULA to Christopher Lee's sexy undead nobleman via Hammer studios in the mid-century to a plethora of vampiric heroes & heroines, villains & villainesses in the new millenium (witness the long-running "Buffy, The Vampire Slayer" TV series and the currently popular UNDERWORLD films) – vampire movies are on top and here to stay. We're thrilled to bring you some of the best, including Hammer's HORROR OF DRACULA and BRIDES OF DRACULA, Roman Polanski's rousing spoof THE FEARLESS VAMPIRE KILLERS, Bela Lugosi's 1940's vampiric encore RETURN OF THE VAMPIRE (for all intents and purposes, a Dracula film in everything-except-name) and Joel Schumacher's atmospheric, tongue-in-cheek pastiche, THE LOST BOYS. We're closing out this special four day series with an old-fashioned, all-night horrorthon, with six chilling, crowd-pleasing sagas of zombies and bloodthirsty spirits, including the original NIGHT OF THE LIVING DEAD, RE-ANIMATOR, HOUSE BY THE CEMETERY and more!

Program compiled by Grant Moninger, Chris D. and Gwen Deglise.

Wednesday, October 25 – 7:30 PM

Double Feature:

HORROR OF DRACULA, 1958, Warner Bros., 88 min. Director Terence Fisher and screenwriter Jimmy Sangster's stripped-to-the-basics, expertly-paced take on Bram Stoker's popular bloodsucker remains one of the most satisfying, just plain exciting gothic horror films ever made. From Christopher Lee's revelatory, broodingly romantic performance as Dracula (introducing a sexual frisson to the proceedings) to Fisher's masterful direction, from Peter Cushing's Professor Van Helsing to Jack Asher's atmosphere-drenched cinematography and James Bernard's superb score, this is perfection. One of Hammer Studio's most enduring masterpieces!

BRIDES OF DRACULA, 1960, Universal, 85 min. Dir. Terence Fisher. When Christopher Lee temporarily balked at getting typecast as the undead count, Hammer had to create a new blood hungry villain, Baron Meinster (David Peel), for their second Dracula installment. Chained in his castle lair by his conflicted mother (Martita Hunt), the Baron is unwittingly released by a stranded French schoolteacher, Marianne (Yvonne Monlaur), and proceeds to wreak havoc amongst the local female population. Luckily, Marianne is rescued by traveling vampire hunter Dr. Van Helsing (Peter Cushing) and the battle of good and evil begins in earnest. A rip-roaring tall tale and one of Hammer's most satisfying vampire pictures. Booksigning preceding the screening at 6:00 PM with Forrest J. Ackerman (CLASSIC UNIVERSAL) and Dave Marchant (MONSTERIFIC) at Every Picture Tells A Story, 1311-C Montana Ave., Santa Monica (right across the street from the Aero).

Thursday, October 26 – 7:30 PM

Double Feature:

THE FEARLESS VAMPIRE KILLERS, 1967, Warner Bros., 108 min. Roman Polanski's expertly balanced blend of humor and horror looks even better today than when it was released nearly 40 years ago. Phenomenal character actor Jack McGowan is perfectly cast as the ancient, screw-loose Professor Abronsius who, with his harebrained sidekick, Alfred (Polanski, doing double duty) is on the hunt for vampires in the snowy Carpathian mountains. Their pursuit shifts into high gear once Alfred's admired-from-afar love interest, inn-keeper's daughter, Sharon Tate, is kidnapped by undead Count von Krolock (Ferdy Mayne). With the beautiful, deeply rich color cinematography of Douglas Slocombe and a memorable score by brilliant Krzysztof Komeda.

RETURN OF THE VAMPIRE, 1944, Sony Repertory, 69 min. Dir. Lew Landers, Kurt Neumann (uncredited). Bela Lugosi is a London-based bloodsucker (looking a dead-ringer for his Universal studios Dracula incarnation) who won't let a little annoyance like WWII interrupt his business. With Matt Willis (as his werewolf assistant), Frieda Inescort, Nina Foch (in her film debut) and Miles Mander. Written by Universal horror vets Griffin Jay and Randall Faye.

Friday, October 27 – 7:30 PM

Double Feature:

THE LOST BOYS, 1987, Warner Bros. 97 min. Jason Patric and little brother Corey Haim move to a California coastal town with their mother Dianne Wiest, only to find it infested by a gang of teenage, punk bloodsuckers led by Keifer Sutherland. Director Joel Schumacher helms this bizarre, spooky and often funny hybrid of the brat pack and vampire genres, bringing an authentically original California Gothic ambience to the proceedings. With Jamie Gertz, Corey Feldman, Edward Herrmann.

CAPTAIN KRONOS, VAMPIRE HUNTER, 1973, Paramount, 91 min. Dir. Brian Clemens. KRONOS recasts the vampire myth as a swashbuckling adventure, with the dashing swordsman, Kronos (Horst Janson) hacking up the undead like a gothic Toshiro Mifune. The divine Caroline Munro nearly walks away with the film as Kronos' love interest, in this handsome – and very rarely-screened – Hammer Films production.

Saturday, October 28 – 7:30 PM till approx. 6:00 AM

Sponsored by Charles N. Mathewson Foundation, Wild Oat and Le Marmiton.

Horror All Night!

NIGHT OF THE LIVING DEAD, 1968, 96 min. Director George Romero's unqualified masterpiece pits a handful of citizens holed up in a farmhouse against a newly revived horde of flesh-eating zombies. The cast of talented unknowns headed by Duane Jones are all alarmingly believable as they fight for life, trying to escape a bad dream that gets uncompromisingly worse and more horrifying as the hours crawl by. If you've never seen this hackles-raising classic on the big screen, here's your chance.

RE-ANIMATOR, 1985, Holland Releasing, 86 min. Adapted from the H.P. Lovecraft tale Herbert West, Re-Animator this mind-bending, darkly funny horror thriller was a breakout hit, establishing director Stuart Gordon as a force to be reckoned with. Impetuous researcher Jeffrey Combs develops a serum that can bring back the dead, something that his new roommate, Bruce Abbott, hadn't exactly bargained on. Delivers on every front with laughs, shocks and genuine shivers escalating until the outrageous gore-drenched finale. With Barbara Crampton, David Gale.

HOUSE BY THE CEMETERY, 1981, 82 min. Italian director Lucio Fulci already had a track record of surreal giallo thrillers before cranking out the DAWN OF THE DEAD knock-off, ZOMBIE, a film that put him on the map with fans of extreme genre cinema. Dubbed the king of Italian goremeisters after following up with CITY OF THE LIVING DEAD and THE BEYOND, Fulci turned out this very atmospheric (and gory) ghost/zombie saga. Katherine MacColl and her husband and son move into an ancient house owned long ago by the insane medical experimenter, Dr. Freudstein. Ghost sightings, mysterious disappearances and bloody killings begin, and the traumatized family wonders if perhaps the good doctor is still around.

CASTLE OF BLOOD (LA DANZA MACABRA), 1964, 85 min. Alongside BLACK SUNDAY, this is Barbara Steele's shining hour and director Antonio Margheriti's masterpiece, a spine-tingling and perversely beautiful hymn to love from beyond the grave. A visiting American journalist (George Riviere) is challenged by Edgar Allan Poe and friend Lord Blackwood to stay overnight in the latter's haunted castle. What he finds there is unrequited love for tragic ghost Elizabeth (Steele) and numerous other undead spirits thirsty for his blood.

PUMPKINHEAD, 1989, MGM Repertory, 86 min. Effects-wizard, Stan Winston made his directorial debut with this macabre modern folk tale. Lance Henriksen stars as a grief-stricken father who goes to an old witch in the swamp to bring forth a demon from hell to wreak vengeance on teen dirtbike riders who accidentally ran down and killed his tiny son.

BURIAL GROUND, 1981, 85 min. Dir. Andrea Bianchi. An archeology professor invites friends down to his villa for the weekend. While waiting, he visits a nearby Etruscan tomb, not guessing that he will be the catalyst for a mass resurrection of the ancient undead. Jaded, bourgeois couples become zombie fodder almost from the time they arrive, amping up the gruesome gore factor like few other Italian zombie films. A laugh-out-loud, so-bad-it's-good lollapalooza of politically incorrect guts-and-grue that is best viewed with an audience to be fully-appreciated. With Karin Well, Gianluigi Chirizzi and Peter Bark as the weird, incestuous manchild, Michael. Plus great classic horror trailers between the films and other surprises! Snack and coffee during the night thanks to Wild Oat and breakfast included for everyone who makes it through till the end, courtesy of Le Marmiton!
Special horrorthon price: $12, General; $10, Seniors & Students; $9, Members.

Memorial Tribute to Argentine Director Fabian Bielinsky

Acclaimed Argentine director Fabian Bielinsky was only 47-years-old when he died suddenly of a heart attack while doing pre-production on a commercial in Sao Paulo, Brazil in 2006. Argentina lost one of it's shining lights of the contemporary film industry, a filmmaker who had been redefining the thriller genre with technical skill, emotional complexity and uncanny intuition.

NINE QUEENS, 2000, Sony Classics, 114 min. Late writer/director Fabian Bielinsky's first thriller brought Argentine cinema back to the foreground. Rookie Gaston Paul and master Ricardo Darin are partners in crime in counterfeiting stamps. This explosive cocktail of thieves, conmen and pickpockets was shot in modern-day Buenos Aires, in a handheld camera style to organically capture the environment. With a gallery of well-drawn character roles. Already a classic!

EL AURA, 2005, IFC Films, 134 min. Dir. Fabian Bielinsky. A taciturn and epileptic taxidermist (Ricardo Darin) who is bored with people, spends his days dreaming up the perfect heist. But he will soon be involved in theft, double crosses and murder. Reminiscent of the Coen Brothers' muted, atmospheric style, with a camera that lingers lovingly on lonely rural landscapes where dreadful things unfold. There's no room for emotion other than thrilling, nervewracking suspense in this noirish world where greed alone drives virtually all of the characters.
